Max BENSE: Born 1910 in Strasbourg. Studied mathematics, physics and philosophy at the universities of Bonn, Cologne and Basel. Worked as a physicist in private industry until World War II, when he was interned by the Nazis. Later, lecturer and professor at the University of Jena. Since 1950, professor of philosophy and science at the Technische Hochschule in Stuttgart. He has been guest-lecturer at the University of Hamburg, the Hochschule für Gestaltung in Ulm, and in Brazil. Interest in his theory of text, and in his own experimental writing, has spread far beyond Germany; a Bense Reader, to be published by the Something Else Press early in 1968, will help the non-German-speaking reader assess Bense's contribution to modern aesthetics. His non-theoretical publications include Grignan, rot 1, Verlag der Augenblick, Stuttgart 1961; Bestandteile des Vorüber, Kiepenheuer & Witsch, Cologne 1961; Entwurf einer Rheinlandschaft, Kiepenheuer & Witsch 1962; Velleicht zunächst wirklich nur, rot 2, Stuttgart 1963; Präzise Vergnügen, Limes Verlag, Wiesbaden 1964; tallose berge, Edition Hansjörg Mayer, Stuttgart 1965, and Zerstörung des Durstes durch Wasser, Kiepenheuer & Witsch, Cologne 1967.

BREMER, Claus (u1924)

Claus BREMER: Born 1924 in Hamburg. Studied philosophy, literature and art history at the University of Freiburg. In Freiburg, where he also trained as an actor and director, Bremer began his close friendship and collaboration with the late Rainer M. Gerhardt, poet, editor and publisher of the review Fragmente, created to help close the "culture gap" imposed on Germany by the Nazis. In 1952 he began eight years of collaboration with Gustav Rudolf Sellner at the Landestheater in Darmstadt, earning a Europe-wide reputation for his research in experimental theater. In Darmstadt he also edited Das Neue Forum, a clearing house for writings on avant-garde theater, and was closely associated with Daniel Spoerri and Emmett Williams in the "Darmstädter Kreis" of concrete poets, kinetic art, dynamic theater, etc. In 1960 he became Chefdramaturg of the municipal theater in Bern, Switzerland, and in 1962 was appointed to a similar post in Ulm. From 1962 to 1965 he taught at the Ulmer Hochschule für Gestaltung. He now lives at Siedlung Halen, near Bern, where he works as free-lance writer, translator, and guest director. His publications include poesie (Karlsruhe 1954); tabellen und variationen (1960) and ideogramme (1964), both published by the Eugen Gomringer Press in Frauenfeld; Theater ohne Vorhang (St. Gallen 1962) and Das aktuelle Theater (1966), collections of his writings on the theater; and engagierende texte, Edition Hansjörg Mayer, Stuttgart 1966. Bremer has translated plays by Sophocles, Aristophanes, Shakespeare, Beaumont and Fletcher, Tzara, Ionesco, Audiberti, Prévert, Gatti and Spoerri.

Juan-Eduardo Cirlot Hommage à Bécquer

Volverán las oscuras golondrinas

En las tapias oscuras a sonar en tu balcón sus nidos a colgar,

y otra vez con el ala a sus cristales las ardientes tupidas.

jugando llamarán.

Pero aquellas que el vuelo refrenaban

De tu jardín las golondrinas como tu hermosura y mi dicha al contemplar, aquellas que aprendieron nuestros nombres . . .

palabras a escalar
éas . . . no volverán!

Volverán las tupidas madreselvas

no volverán.
de tu jardín las tapias a escalar

y otra vez a la tarde aún más hermosas

Pero Dios, mudo, sus flores se abrirán.

Pero aquellas cuajadas de rocío
y caer.

cuyas gotas mirábamos temblar

y caer como lágrimas del día . . .

No volverán oscuras ni tupidas.
éas . . . no volverán!

Volverán del amor en tus oídos

las palabras ardientes a sonar,

No volverán ardientes ni palabras.
tu corazón de su profundo sueño

CLAUS, Carlfriedrich (u, 1930)

- Carlfriedrich CLAUS: Born 1930. Lives in Annaberg-Buchholz, German Democratic Republic. Early influences: the philosopher Ernst Bloch and the Lurian cabala. The most comprehensive guide to the work of Claus (labeled "the most radically fantastic and elegant of the new poet-artists" by a writer in the London Times Literary Supplement) is Notizen zwischen der experimentellen Arbeit—zu ihr, published by Typos Verlag in Frankfurt-am-Main as a catalogue to the 1964 retrospective exhibition of his work in Baden-Baden. Claus' work can be roughly divided into his Klang-Gebilden (1952–59); the Sprechexercitien experiments on magnetic tape (1959); Phasen and other typewritten texts (1958–); the Geschichts-Kombinat, dialectically interrelated texts printed on transparent paper (1959–64), and the Reflektierende Reflexionen, script montages on glass and mirrors (since 1961).

.Henri CHOPIN: Born 1922 in Paris. In 1943, deported as a forced laborer, later interned in camps in Czechoslovakia and Germany. 1945, Soviet Union. Returned to France to find his family had been exterminated. Joined the military, served in Indochina, returned to Paris sick and "surtout antitout." Chopin's earliest preserved writings are poems of the resistance written during his internment in Czechoslovakia. His collections of poems include Signes, Édition Caractères 1957; Chant de Nuit, Édition Tour de Feu 1957; Présence, Édition poésie Nouvelle 1957; l'Arriviste, Édition Caractères 1958, and La Peur, Édition Cinquième Saison 1959. Many of his audiopoems, including Vibrespace, La Fusée Interplanétaire, Indicatif 1, l'Energie du Sommeil and Sol Air, have been released in the OU series of Cinquième Saison, of which Chopin is editor. Sol Air and Vibrespace served as the nuclei of experimental ballets performed in Paris, and the film version of l'Energie du Sommeil, made with Béguier and Bertini, was awarded the Prix Antonin Artaud in 1966. Part of a novel, Le Dernier Roman du Monde, was published in OU 26/27 in 1966. Chopin's review OU is a major forum of concrete and audio-visual poetry. He has arranged more than 30 exhibitions of objective and visual poetry, and his critical writings have been widely published.

DE CAMPOS , Augusto (u 1931)

Augusto De CAMPOS: Born 1931 in São Paulo, Brazil. Co-founder, with his brother Haroldo and Décio Pignatari, of the Naigandres Group in 1952, and co-author of the "pilot plan for concrete poetry" (1958). His first concrete poems were published in the anthology Naigandres 2 (1955), the same year the colored poems in his poetamenos series were presented at the Teatro de Arena of São Paulo projected on a screen and read by four voices. His publications, apart from the large body of his work in Naigandres anthologies and Invenção, include O Rei Menos o Reino (1951); a translation of Ezra Pound's Cantos (1960), in collaboration with his brother and Pignatari; e. e. cummings—10 poemas (1960) and Panorama do Finnegans Wake de James Joyce (1962), translations (with his brother) of eleven fragments, with notes and critical texts, and Teoria da Poesia Concreta (1965), with his brother and Pignatari. "It was chiefly through exchanging letters and books with Augusto de Campos—who sent them the 'pilot plan,'" writes Pignatari, "...that Ian Hamilton Finlay, Scotland, and Dom Sylvester Houédard, OSB, came enthusiastically to concrete poetry."

Haroldo De CAMPOS: Born 1929 in São Paulo, Brazil. Co-founder, with his brother Augusto and Décio Pignatari, of the Noigandres Group, and co-author of the "pilot plan for concrete poetry." A profound student of global literature, he has translated or collaborated on translations from Chinese, English, French, German, Italian, Japanese, Russian, Spanish, etc. In 1957, after the launching of the international movement for concrete poetry, de Campos wrote to Kitasono Katue in Tokyo, introducing him to the problems of concrete poetry—and the result was the first Japanese concrete poem, by Katue. In similar fashion, through travels and correspondence, he has proselytized for the new poetry throughout the world. In addition to the large body of his work in Noigandres anthologies and Invenção, he has published Auto do Possesso (1949), Servidão de Passagem (1962), Panorama do Finnegans Wake de James Joyce (1962), translations (with his brother) of eleven fragments, with notes and critical texts; Alea I—Semantic Variations (1964), and Versuchsbuch Galaxien (1966).

Ian Hamilton FINLAY: Born 1925. Lives in northern Scotland. Poet, toy-maker, typographer. His first collection of poems, The Dancers Inherit the Party (1959), attracted the attention of a number of established poets in the United States; his next book, Glasgow Beasts, An a Burd-Haw, An Inseks, An Aw, a Fush (1960), which eschewed literary Scots in favor of the industrial dialect, attracted the attention of Edinburgh authorities, who were forced to ban demonstrations against it. The same year he founded the Wild Hawthorn Press, and there followed a succession of works, typographically rendered by Finlay, that established him as the major concrete poet in the British Isles, whose work has influenced many of the younger poets there and in North America. These works include Concertina (1961); Rapel, 10 fauve and suprematist poems (1963); Canal Stripe series 2, Canal Stripe series 3, and Telegrams from my Windmill (1964); Ocean Stripe series 2, Ocean Stripe series 3, and Cythera (1965); 6 Small Pears for Eugen Gomringer, 6 Small Songs in 3's, Autumn Poem and Tea Leaves and Fishes (1966). Two collections, The Blue and the Brown Poems and Honey by the Water, are scheduled for publication in 1967. In addition, Finlay has made a series of standing poems; Earthship, a paper-sculpture poem, and large poem-constructions in glass and concrete. A collection of short stories, The Sea-Bed and Other Stories, was published in 1958, and Universal Editions in Vienna released a German translation of his early Walking Through Seaweed and Other Plays in 1965.

JANDL, Ernst (u. 1925)

Ernst JANDL: Born 1925 in Vienna. Studied Germanistics and English at the University of Vienna. Since 1949 Dr. Jandl has taught at grammar schools in Vienna. He began his experiments in language in the mid-fifties, as an act of protest against the traditionalism prevalent in poetry. "Later," he writes, "when manipulating linguistic material became an absorbing end in itself, aggressiveness was no longer a major concern. Disregard of the conventions of language was rewarded by the discovery of new ways of making grotesque poems, many of which were meant to be spoken rather than read quietly. Moreover, the experimental poem was willing to accomplish what its more conventional relative was only ready to describe." - Jiří KOLÁŘ: Born 1914 in Protivín, Czechoslovakia. Lives in Prague. From 1941 to 1957 he published seven collections of poetry. In 1959 Kolář wrote his Tribute to Kasimir Malevich, followed by Y 61, a collection of constellations, fragments of conversations, newspaper clippings, linguistic concretions, etc., and Sign-board for Gersaint (1962) which introduced his "evident poetry." Kolář has collaborated on translations of Carl Sandburg, Walt Whitman, T. S. Eliot, St. John Perse, Samuel Beckett and other writers, and his collages have been exhibited in one-man shows in Prague, London, Miami, Lisbon, Vienna, Genoa and other cities.

(Extracto de una monografía, escrito por Raoul-Jean Moulin con motivo de la exposición exhibida en el Museo de Arte Moderno de Paris; 1971)

JIRI KOLAR: Desmitificación de la palabra y la imagen

Para expresarse, Jiri Kolar se sirve del collage. El material que emplea para ello es el papel impreso, testimonio de las diversas técnicas de impresión que el hombre ha utilizado a través de las civilizaciones, y que constituye la primera base de su discurso.

Jiri Kolar nació en Checoslovaquia en 1914 ; trabajó en el campo de la literatura y su obra, en un principio, más literaria que gráfica se inserta dentro de la línea de los "Caligramas" de Apollinaire o del "Coup de dé" de Mallarmé, Hacia el final de los años cincuenta, rompe con la escritura en y publica tres ensayos de poesía visual titulados "Homenaje a Casimir Malevitch"(1959); "Y 61"(1960-61); "Poemas del silencio"(1961).Este último publicado en Praga en 1966 bajo el título "L'Enseigne de Gersain", constituye una pieza capital en su obra por tanto en cuanto en ella pasa de la poesía escrita a la "poesía evidente", que define como aquella que excluye la palabra escrita como portadora de la creación y de la comprensión.

Es entonces y a partir de 1961, cuando inicia una serie experimental que culminará en los poemas objetos de 1963 en los que concretiza y las palabras en pequeños objetos naturales o impresos.

Paralelamente siguió sus experiencias sobre collage. Después de la publicación de la serie "Les Jours de l'annéeé" (1958), inicia sus originales experimentos a base de imágenes impresas desdobladas en múltiples láminas verticales, denominados "rollages". Apartir de ellos y enriqueciéndolos mediante efectos de superposición crea los "intercalages". Siguiendo esta línea publica en 1967 el "Entretien sur l'art moderne" en donde se ven los personajes de "L'enseigne de Gersaint" metidos en extrañas burbujas en forma de cuadros contemporáneos. También a partir de 1967 crea extraños experimentos a base de la multiplicación de mariposas de vivos colores.

Es a partir de mediados de los años sesenta, después de una visita a los horribles escenarios de los campos de concentración de Auschwitz donde comprende la vanidad de todo arte que quiera impresionar o emocionar. De ahí ~~la~~ surge la idea del assemblage-collage que substituye ~~los~~ objetos por su reproducción. Vemos aquí lo que le distingue fundamentalmente del neo-dadaísmo o del pop'art y que permanece de su moral de creador. La intensa fragmentación de sus impresos publicitarios nos revela la necesidad de los mitos, las realidades contradictorias y los ritmos frenéticos del mundo en que vivimos.

Así pues fue necesaria la explosión del texto y de la imagen, de 1963, para que ~~la~~ la sistematización del collage se realizara pronto en tres dimensiones. Desde entonces se sirve de volúmenes como soportes de sus collages a base de textos impresos. Su técnica del "chiasmage" va desarrollándose a partir de la casi pulverización de textos, ya sea en caracteres hebreos, griegos, chinos etc., organizados según un nuevo orden de lectura sintética.

A partir de 1967, y remitiéndose a la máquina de escribir,^{es} cuando inicia la publicación sémabal de su "periódico", en donde desarrolla al máximo su poesía "destática" y que tuvo su fin en 1970 a causa de su enfermedad.

Jiri Kolar entiende el testimonio de su vida, a través de la banalidad de las dimensiones cotidianas, insertadas en aquellas que son históricas y comunes a todos los hombres. Es durante la primavera del 68 cuando su obra se convierte en el testimonio visual del movimiento histórico de su pueblo.

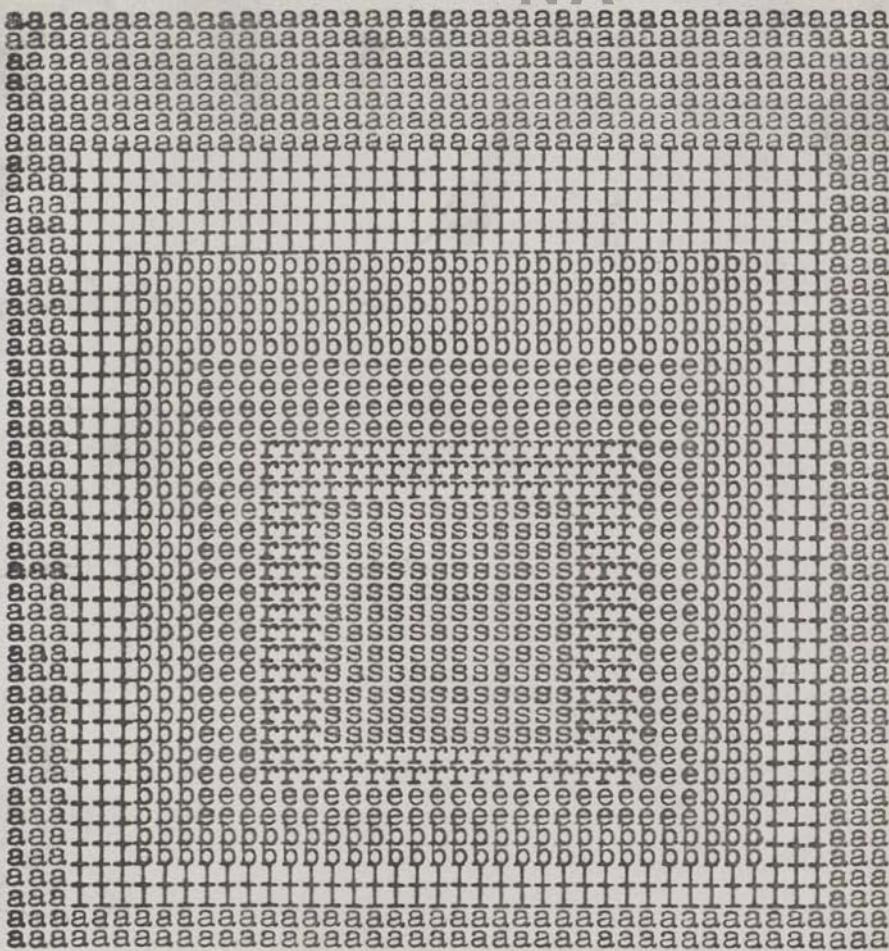

En 1969, Jindrich Chalupecky presentó en Praga el primer "environement" concebido por Kolar; esta manifestación implicaba cinco períodos diferenciados espacial y temporalmente; ella representó ~~la~~ la aclaración de toda su obra anterior que no ha dejado jamás de someter la imagen impresa del espacio y del tiempo, del arte y de la vida a una re-lectura desmitificadora. La complejidad de sus collages impide ~~que~~ al espectador donde empieza y donde termina lo que fue pintado y lo que fue fotografiado, lo cual le obliga a poner en la obra su capacidad de imaginación para inventar nuevos modos de lectura y descifrar nuevas significaciones.

Hansjörg MAYER: Born 1943 in Stuttgart. Typoet, printer, and editor. He has been described by Haroldo de Campos, who coined the word "typoet" in a tribute to Mayer, as "a man who eats reality with types and reinvents reality through types, reality being for him texts." Mayer studied with Max Bense at the Technische Hochschule in Stuttgart, and at the Engineering School for Industrial Graphics. He is a frequent lecturer at the Bath Academy of Art in England. One of the most original of the younger designers and typographers, he has made available through his press (Edition Hansjörg Mayer, Stuttgart) the works of the major experimental writers of Europe, England and North America. These publications include the futura series of large folded broadsheets, the Rot Texte series (edited by Elizabeth Walter and Max Bense) and a succession of de luxe portfolios. His own publications include 19 typographien (1962); alphabet (1963), alphabetenquadratbuch 1 (1965) and typoactions (1967). He has contributed to many magazines and anthologies, and his work is represented in the collections of the Museum of Modern Art in New York, the Walker Art Center in Minneapolis, the Stedelijk in Amsterdam, the Gemeentemuseum in The Hague, and the Museo de Arte Moderna in Rio de Janeiro.

ROT, Diter (u. 1930)

Diter ROT: Born 1930 in Hannover, Germany. At the age of 17 he was apprenticed to an advertising designer in Bern, Switzerland. In 1952 he rejected this field and supported himself as a carpenter, ditchdigger and waiter, while studying art. In 1954 he was awarded a foundation grant after a group show in Bern, and two years later was invited to join the Copenhagen textile firm Unica-Væev as a fabric designer. (His fabrics won a gold star medal at an international competition in San Francisco.) In 1957 he married and moved to Reykjavik, where he produced a series of books now famous in the world of Op art and concrete poetry. His paintings, sculpture, constructions, films, engravings and commercial designs have been widely exhibited in the United States and Europe. A prolific writer, Rot's more important publications include bok 56-59 (Reykjavik 1959), the basic collection of his ideograms; a series of albums with loose sheets of paper (black and white, or red and blue, or red and green) perforated with slots of different widths hand-cut by the artist (1958-61); the copley book (London 1965), a random collection of printed materials published for the William and Noma Copley Foundation; scheisse (Providence 1966), 100 "classical" poems; die blaue flut (Stuttgart 1967), the artist's American diary. An English-language edition of his selected writings will appear in 1967.

Mary Ellen SOLT: Born 1920 in Gilmore City, Iowa: "I became interested in concrete poetry when I visited Ian Hamilton Finlay in Edinburgh in August 1962. He showed me the Brazilian anthology Poesia Concreta, which I sent for when I returned to the United States and which I received from Augusto de Campos in December. I studied the poems with great interest and excitement for several weeks with the aid of a Portuguese dictionary. That spring I began to write flower poems using visual forms. These poems were not like the Brazilian poems. Eventually they became the poems of Flowers in Concrete. I was unable fully to comprehend the esthetic arguments in the Brazilian 'pilot plan for concrete poetry' as I had at that time had practically no experience of concrete art of any kind, but they interested me greatly. The flower poems are probably more the result of several years' study of the objectivist method of William Carlos Williams and Louis Zukofsky except that until I saw the concrete poetry of Brazil I had been unable to find for myself a satisfactory way to go on from what had been done by Williams and Zukofsky. I have also been greatly influenced by the work of Ian Hamilton Finlay, particularly the fauve and suprematist poems, and by the introduction to them in Typographica 8 by Dom Sylvester Houédard." Flowers in Concrete was published in 1966 by the Fine Arts Department of the University of Indiana.

WILLIAMS, Emmett (u. 1925)

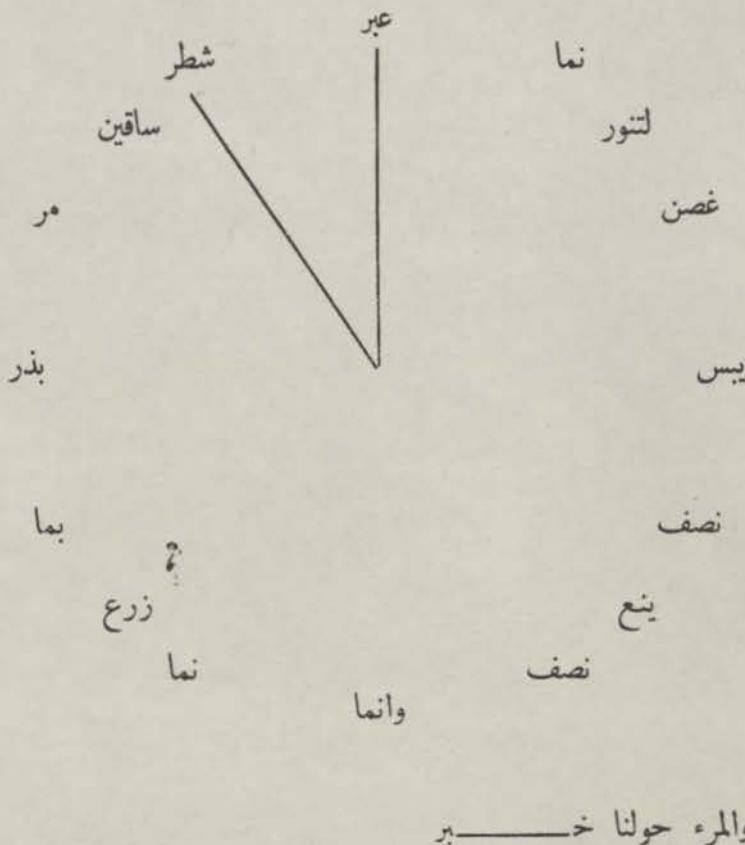

Emmett WILLIAMS: Born 1925 in Greenville, South Carolina. Lived in Europe from 1949 to 1966. Studied poetry with John Crowe Ransom at Kenyon College, took courses in anthropology at the University of Paris, was an assistant to ethnologist Paul Radin in Lugano. Sometime journalist, travel and ghost writer. Collaborated with Claus Bremer and Daniel Spoerri in the Darmstadt circle of concrete poets, dynamic theater, etc., from 1957 to 1959. Former European coordinator of Fluxus. A founding member of the Domaine Poétique in Paris. Close friendship and collaboration with Robert Filliou, resulting in many co-productions and co-inventions. His publications include konkretionen, Krefeld 1958; ja, es war noch da, an opera, in nota, Munich 1960; poésie et cetera américaine (an anthology of action poetry), Paris 1963; 13 variations on 6 words of gertrude stein (1958), Galerie der Spiegel, Cologne 1965; rotapoems (variations on a poem from Diter Rot's lyrical collection Scheisse), Edition Hansjörg Mayer, Stuttgart 1966; and sweethearts, a long erotic concrete poem cycle, Stuttgart 1967. Theater essays on Albee, Artaud, Beckett, Eliot, Gelber, Henry James, Pound, Wallace Stevens, Gertrude Stein, etc., in Das Neue Forum, Berner Blätter, Ulmer Theater. He translated and retranslated Daniel Spoerri's Topographie Anecdôtée du Hasard (An Anecdoted Topography of Chance, Something Else Press, New York 1966), and edited Claes Oldenburg's Store Days, Something Else Press, 1967. His latest work, a boy and a bird, is a long cycle of shifting linguistic relationships.
